Monthly Commentary

June saw a steadier tone across markets as easing geopolitical tensions and resilient economic activity supported investor sentiment. The signing of a Memorandum of Understanding between the U.S. and Iran helped improve confidence in energy markets, with WTI crude declining from $87 to $69 as prospects for the reopening of the Strait of Hormuz improved. Meanwhile, newly appointed Fed Chair Kevin Warsh struck a hawkish tone, emphasising price stability and signalling a reduced reliance on forward guidance and, over time, a smaller Federal Reserve balance sheet. This supported a stronger U.S. dollar, lower long-term inflation expectations and higher Treasury yields, with the 5-year U.S. Treasury yield rising 8 bps to 4.22%, while broader market sentiment remained underpinned by continued AI-driven investment and resilient economic growth.

Within USD corporates, performance was mixed across ratings, with BB spreads tightening (-2 bps), outperforming, while BBB spreads widened (+1 bp) and B-rated spreads widened (+15 bps). Sector performance was led by Consumer Discretionary, Industrials and Health Care, while Utilities and Energy lagged.

The Fund returned +0.75% in June, outperforming both the Bloomberg Global High Yield Corporate Index (LG50TRUU, -0.13%) and the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (I09805US, -0.43%). We remain cautious on inflation risks and the evolving Fed outlook, while closely monitoring energy markets and private credit.

About the Benchmark:

- a. The Bloomberg Global High Yield Corporate Index (LG50TRUU Index) is a multi-currency measure of the global high yield corporate debt market. The index represents the union of the US High Yield, the Pan-European High Yield, and the corporate sector of the Emerging Markets (EM) Hard Currency High Yield Indices; and,
- b. The Bloomberg Global Aggregate Corporate Index (I09805US Index) is a flagship measure of global investment grade, fixed-rate corporate debt. This multicurrency benchmark includes bonds from developed and emerging markets issuers within the industrial, utility and financial sectors.

Risk and Reward Profile

Credit and Default Risk: A decline in the financial health of an issuer of a fixed income security can lead to an inability or unwillingness to repay a loan or meet a contractual obligation. This could cause the value of its bonds to depreciate.

Currency Risk: Changes in exchange rates may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase.

Liquidity Risk: Difficult market conditions could result in certain securities becoming hard to sell at a desired time and price.

Interest Rate Risk: Changes in interest rates will usually result in the values of bond and other debt instruments moving in the opposite direction (e.g., a rise in interest rates likely leads to fall in bond prices).
